An Iranian feature film Kavir-e Marg / DEAD HEAT UNDER THE SHRUBS will be remaked by a Swiss film director, Denis Rabaglia

Iranian filmmaker Esmael Barari produced the film four years ago in the deserts around Isfahan. Barari told IRNA that Rabaglia will shoot the film on the snowy mountains of his country.

The DEAD HEAT UNDER THE SHRUBS narrates the story of a young boy from rural area who is working in desert. He comes across a woman who wants to hide the body of a person she killed. The film develops the relations between the young boy and the criminal woman.

Barari said that he produced the film in cooperation with a team of non-professional artists and it was screened in 12 international film festivals worldwide with the most recent being the festival in Valladolid, Spain.

He said that the jury of the Valladolid International Film Festival and the audience welcomed the film and mentioned its soundtrack and plot.
